A composition for stabilization of an active agent, comprising:

a plurality of multilamellar vesicles in the form of a regular stack of concentric bi-layers comprising at least one surfactant, said bi-layers extending from each vesicle core to periphery, and being separated by an interstitial liquid;

a first compound comprising said active agent encapsulated within said vesicles, said active agent being subject to chemical degredation; and a second compound encapsulated within said vesicles, said second compound being an inhibitor of degredation of said active agent, and being present within said vesicles in an amount sufficient to inhibit degredation of said active agent.
